

Peter Island Lighthouse post Phase 1 fix
Credit: Hammer and Sky Studios

Location of Peter Island Lighthouse
Credit: Google Maps

A positive post on Peter Island Lighthouse! This time last year the top of the lighthouse's wooden structure was rotting, barely supporting the lantern room and gallery. A call went out to come for volunteers to spend a working holiday in return for their room and board. The response was overwhelming!

Volunteers first had to carry all material over a plywood trail up to the lighthouse whose island is a designated bird sanctuary. Then new supports were installed and rotten wooden ones removed. The outside gallery was completely rebuilt and fresh red paint applied to the lantern roof, gallery rails and lighthouse door. What a difference three weeks of hard work made!

Now the call has gone out again to find workers for phase 2 of the restoration of the Peter Island Lighthouse. One NSLPS member who helped out last year, said that it was "a unique experience in a beautiful setting, with a chance to make a lasting impact to keeping these important historical buildings around." Think you want to be part of this? See for details below how to volunteer or share this post!

Hammer and Sky Studios

24 March at 18:42 · 🌐

Phase 2 of the Peters Island Lighthouse Restoration is on. Volunteer now!

Please share!

Working on siding, solar panels and lights. We offer an incredible volunteer experience: the chance to help restore an iconic lighthouse on a remote island only accessible by boat. We put you up, feed you and supply the tools. You arrange your travel.

For more information, contact John Schwingamer at brierislandchurch@gmail.com When: From August 15 to September 5th of this year.

Send me a paragraph on why we should choose you.

Please share!

Peter Island Lighthouse before Phase 1 fix
Credit: Hammer and Sky Studios

Bringing materials ashore
Credit: Hammer and Sky Studios

Fixing the support structure
Credit: Hammer and Sky Studios

Rebuilding the gallery deck
Credit: Hammer and Sky Studios